Promoting Irish Arts Worldwide

EDINBURGH

Culture Ireland

Established in 2005, Culture Ireland's mission is to promote Irish arts worldwide.

Through grant programmes and showcase initiatives, it supports and develops opportunities for Irish artists and companies to present their work across the globe. This includes international festivals, venues, galleries and arts markets including here at the Edinburgh Festivals, Celtic Connections, the Venice Art and Architecture Biennales, WOMEX World Music Expo and Frankfurt Book Fair.

Through this work, it builds relationships and networks with arts and cultural organisations, relevant public bodies, state agencies and government departments at home and abroad to advance the global impact of Irish artists. It also ensures that Ireland's cultural excellence is enjoyed by international audiences.

Culture Ireland runs a regular funding scheme to support the international presentation of work by Irish artists and companies. Applications are accepted from both participating artists and from international presenters.

Culture Ireland also operates See Here, a scheme to support the inward travel to Ireland of international presenters, curators and promoters to see new Irish work on the island of Ireland available for touring.

Full details of Culture Ireland's activities and grant schemes are available at: www.cultureireland.ie

Culture Ireland is a division of the Department of Culture, Communications and Sport.

Welcome | Fáilte

As Minister with responsibility for promoting Irish arts worldwide, I'm very pleased to introduce Culture Ireland's 2026 Edinburgh Showcase, once again presenting the best of emerging theatre and dance from across the island of Ireland.

Last year, I was privileged to visit Edinburgh during the Festival month and attended several productions featured in Culture Ireland's 2025 showcase. The audience and critical responses to those shows confirmed to me – once again – the high esteem in which Irish arts is held. Many of those productions - Lost Lear, Anthem for Dissatisfaction, You'll See, among others – continue to tour internationally with opportunities emerging from their Edinburgh success.

During my visit, I also saw at first hand, the valuable industry engagement and professional development opportunities that Culture Ireland's showcase facilitates and was heartened to hear from both artists and presenters about the value of Culture Ireland's showcasing.

Over the following pages, you'll read of the eight shows participating in this year's Edinburgh programme. I wish them well as they follow in the footsteps of Irish artists who have blazed the Edinburgh trail over many decades.

This booklet also features details of the many Irish writers who will feature at this year's Edinburgh International Book Festival. I'm hesitant about the phrase "golden age" but the current cohort of Irish writers is achieving astonishing successes across the globe.

All these performances and readings are a chance for new audiences and I know that the participating artists make the most of the opportunity.

As ever, we rely on the critical support and commitment of the venues and Festivals across Edinburgh as they welcome and support Irish artists. I want to thank sincerely those organisations including the Edinburgh Fringe Society and the Edinburgh International Book Festival, as well as key Fringe venues including Assembly, Summerhall, Traverse and Underbelly.

I also want to acknowledge the Irish Consulate in Edinburgh for both their amplification of Culture Ireland's work but also their support of Irish artists across the year.

Beir bua.

'When beautiful worlds collide'

Mo (the Scottish one) and Realtin (the Irish one) partied, played and blazed their way through the Edinburgh student dream. Set in Glasgow a couple of years later, For Dolores is about friendship, motherhood and coming to terms with your worst mistakes.

Like twin stars in obsessive orbit, it's a friendship, a rivalry and an adventure. Risk is a delicious pleasure: until it all explodes in the blink of an eye.

How far will they go for love?

Garrick has tidied her living room and put out the good biscuits. But social worker Hegarty is there to interrogate. Why has her son got a mysterious bruise? Is she fit to care for him? What is she hiding? As power shifts and facades drop it becomes clear Garrick and Hegarty desperately need each other.

A taut thriller, a struggle for power between a worried mother and concerned social worker. But who is telling the truth? A complex interrogation of parenting, power and what it means to care.

Witness the passionate drive of the GAA, Ireland's national sports, fused with dance, disco and comedy in Ham Sandwiches and Discipline.

From mummies' sideline screaming, manic pundits, stadium crisp eating and teenage club socials, we delve into what makes this sport a national tradition. While injecting this hive of Irishness with campiness and humour we glimpse at what growing up in Ireland can be like and what can shape a national identity. After a national and international festival tour this infectiously joyous theatrical explosion makes its UK premiere.

Julius Caesar Variety Show is the worst audition you've ever had. A Black actor, a woman actor, and a straight white male actor walk into a Shakespeare audition in a condemned theatre space. Amidst a riot outside the theatre, three auditionees attempt to impress an intensely respected director set on reinventing the play in 'unorthodox' styles. As the audition unfolds, the actors' identities are called into the audition room and exploited for better performances.

Written and Performed by Martha KnightDirected by Joy Nesbitt Produced by Ois O'DonoghueOriginal Lighting Design Jess Fitzsimmons KaneSet and Costume Design Jack RogersSound Engineering Tobi Barry

Who is the king of all birds? This tongue-in-cheek gig for voice and vocoder by award-winning sound artist Martha Knight is a love letter to the history of flight. Based on the phenomenon of aerial photos being displayed in Irish homes from the 1960s, the one-woman play expands this story to include explorations of ancient mythological birds, bringing us to the present, where airplanes and satellites rule the sky. Conjuring tales through traditional Irish music, using live electronics and effects to bring the ancient Irish tradition of song into the present day.

Walden has a pretty good life. Happily married to his mannequin wife, he works his pigeon children into the ground and feasts upon their eggs for sustenance. Walden is doing everything he's supposed to do – so why does he feel so empty? Can his fantasies about his pigeons sustain him? Or must he face up to a great hurt done to him in the past? The Pigeon Factory is a darkly absurd one-man show that explores work, family and finding purpose in a broken society.

The play debuted at Cork Midsummer Festival 2023. It was revived in Cork, Dublin, and the West Cork Fit-Up Festival in 2024, and at Cork Fringe Festival in 2026.

Spin Cycle: The Lesbian Lauderette Play

By Zofia Zerphy Directed by Bethan Rose
Cast Rhiannon Bell and Zofia Zerphy

Spin Cycle: The Lesbian Laundrette Play makes its Edinburgh Fringe debut, bringing a queer absurdist story to the stage. Packed with heart, wit and emotional depth, the play presents a liminal world where past and present collide in the space of a single wash cycle, allowing forgotten memories to be rinsed clean.

Eyes lock. Hearts thump. But something is off. This snappy two-hander explores love, memory, class and Irish identity against the thrum of washing machines that cleanse our clothes, lives, and actions.

Off West End's 2026 OffFest award-winner, Spin Cycle champions Irish heritage and queer and gender non-conforming characters.

EDINBURGH INTERNATIONAL BOOK FESTIVAL 2026

For 2026, Culture Ireland is delighted to extend its long established partnership with the Book Festival, now based at the Edinburgh Futures Institute.

This year, in addition to providing support for the attendance of Irish writers, we are also supporting a sustainable travel pilot. The Festival has invited a number of Irish writers to experience possible travel alternatives by making their way to the Festival overland while measuring their carbon footprint and the barriers they face en route.

A selection of Irish writers appearing at the Festival is featured in the following pages.
